NewAthena Science Conference

News about the NewAthena Science conference, to be held in Prague, 19-23 April 2027:

abstract submission extension:
NEW deadline: 27 November 2026.
Please, check carefully the instructions detailed on the conference web page before submitting your abstract as it implies an FZU-Indico pre-registration.

Information on conference registration fees is now available. Registration will open in early January

Video from last webinar

If you missed the webinar by Anna Ogorzałek, (NASA GSFC & University of Maryland) on "Mapping the hidden drivers of galaxy evolution" you can watch it now at the ACO's YouTube channel.
Presentation slides are also available.

ACME 4th TNA call: research visits in multi-messenger astronomy

The ACME project offers funded research visits to European institutes for training and expert guidance in multi-messenger astronomy, including X-rays. Visits can address observational, data analysis, or theoretical aspects.

The call is open to PhD students, postdocs, and staff from EU and non-EU institutions. The host institute must be in a country other than the applicant's own.

Deadline: 8 December 2026, 17:00 CET. Visits must take place before the end of June 2027. Not all institutes are hosting in this call; see the list in the application form.
